What Is Sisal?

Sisal is made from the fibers of the sisal plant.

Sisal is a plant that is grown in semi-arid regions of the globe. The most common locations to grow sisal are Brazil and Africa, due to adequate environmental conditions. Sisal is a natural fiber that is derived from the agave sisalana cactus plant. The fibers, up to three feet long, can be harvested by hand from the plant, and are considered to be much stronger than jute or coir.

Sisal has a distinctive tan, beige, and creamy white color that naturally comes from the plant fibers itâ€™s made of.

These fibers are woven into a natural-looking fabric that is mildly neutral and will fit with nearly any décor.

Natural Materials

Sisal is a natural fiber material, non-toxic, anti-static, and non- flammable. It is also very durable. It will provide your furry pal with countless hours of playtime.

The Instinct of the Cats

Catsâ€™ natural love of scratching, which is undoubtedly fun, but if they are not kept busy, they can do some serious damage in your home. To help your cat release its natural instinct, just buy it now.

Multiple Functions

the long scratching mat is made from woven natural sisal with a stable backing that will not slide away on your floor while your kitty plays with it. The versatile design allows you to use it as a scratch pad, sleeping pad, cat litter mat, or even as a mat door.
